Modern Professional Communication Tools

Communication and the sharing of information is at the very basis of societies.

Be able to pass information in an effective and easy way is not only important but essential.

Thanks to the Butterfly Magic Hits system, communication has evolved to an advanced level unseen before allowing you to be in touch and getting secure feedbacks from your people, while notifying them of important matters or simply conducting a survey, wherever they are in the world and at any moment of the day directly from their mobile. With BMH you can rest assure that your people will have a much higher chance to see your notification than with more conventional legacy systems.

Structured Information For Efficiency

With the introduction of emails, the world of communication and conducting business has tremendously changed. The issue many organizations face today is the treatment of this mass of information that we are browsing on a daily basis.

With the introduction of the BMH, not only you get the advantage to use tools designed to communicate one-on-one (1:1), but also one-on-many (1:N) using a user friendly graphical interface that is structuring your requests and the feedbacks of your users in such a way that you can, in a matter of seconds, recover any passed communication on any matter from the audit trail log that is available online from your account.

Personalized Queries To Meet Your Needs

Whether you are managing a tenancy community, an employees group, or any type of organization, the BMH is designed to meet your needs allowing you to create your own set of queries to your people meeting your specific needs. The real power of the tool does not only reside in its ability to communicate from one to many, but that it allows you create your own set of feedback responses within any business or social agreement process with an incredible flexibility to which the members of the community will be able to respond digitally and securely sign their responses using their PIN code as their digital signature from their registered device.

This powerful technology can be integrated and interfaced directly with your own existing system thanks to a powerful set of APIs (Application Programming Interface).

BMH Can Be Expanded Further With Some Of Our Other Services

Automate reminders directly on the mobile devices of your members; collect payments and fees such as rent or community charges, invoice them and get their approval "on-the-fly & on-the-go" eliminating countless email exchanges, phone calls, regular post mail, and so much more... and the Best of all is that as usual, we put a very high attention to the privacy of everybody involved in the communication.

If your organization is not using BMH - you are missing something!
