Central Reserve Management System

Manage, transact, communicate and securely control all transactions with your community members, fellow employees, clients, suppliers, banks, associates and third parties, even your government and business partners.

Throughout history complementary and local currencies have been used with national currencies because their advantages are numerous. Complementary Currencies are created to respond to a fulfil specific need and where there are available or easily created resources. They are "complementary" to the national currencies and they play a key role in providing the world's financial system more sustainability and reliability by providing values to circulate locally where it is needed.

PayServices Central Reserve Currency Management System is an incredible tool that allows any company, group of peoples, low or no profit organizations, NGO's etc. to issue their own unit of value for their members and control it according to banking industry standards.

Here are some great reasons why your community or organization should create a central currency reserve:

- It helps to stop wealth and energy from being drained out of the local economics into remote banks and head offices, increasing your local vitality and well-being.
- It ensures that money circulates locally, going to local people, local businesses, and local community regeneration and stays there.
- It builds spirit, support, and trust between people in the local community.
- It promotes resilience in the local community, protecting it against the destructive instability of the global markets.
- It reduces our ecological footprint by supporting local supply, local production, and accountability.
- It makes us more mindful when we make purchases, and enhances our economic knowledge of the goods and services available so that we can make more authentic economic choices which protect the local environment for the common good.
- It promotes creativity, resourcefulness, and abundance in the local community, utilizing and developing our skills, enthusiasm, and potential.
